CFRA KEEPS BUY OPINION ON SHARES OF AMAZON.COM, INC.

Recent Price : $1994.49

Recommendation:

We see increased headline risk on the DoJ's affirmation of an antitrust probe of certain large Technology/Internet companies, believed to include Amazon as well as Alphabet [Google], Apple and Facebook. Such review will consider potential anti-competitive or anti-consumer practices within online marketplace spanning retail services, search and social media. The news isn't entirely surprising, after months of speculation that the DoJ and FTC were already collaborating on related inquiries, with those companies also subject to Congressional hearings in recent weeks. Absent any indication on the potential timeframe or outcome for the probes, the heightened regulatory sensitivity could increasingly create an overhang for AMZN, though such concerns can sometimes seem overdone. With its Q2 report set after the market's closing tomorrow, AMZN sees sales growth of 13%-20% and operating income of $2.6B-$3.6B, with likely further improvement in earnings visibility and ramp-up in free cash flow.
